

Love where you Live

Photographic competition and exhibition
£10,000 prizes

The love where you live photo competition for schools is about encouraging children at Key stages 3 and 4 to take notice of their local surroundings - what's beautiful and what's not so great - so they learn to enjoy it, and look after it, at a young age.

Ecoschools has partnered with not for profit recycling organisation Alupro to offer prizes for schools worth a total £1,000 for the best pictures in two categories:

- How your school encourages love of local landscape and wildlife
- Practical measures taken by children in your school to look after the environment

love of landscape and wildlife?

How to enter :-
Contact Mr Benfield for an entry form.
jpg on a memory stick

CLOSING DATE
25 FEBRUARY 2010

For instance, nature walks and farm visits make great pictures. And as examples of practical measures to care for the environment, recycling aluminium drinks cans and foil is 20 times more energy and carbon efficient than making them from virgin metal, so this is something everyone should do. And we can grow vegetables, clean up litter, turn down the thermostat, and walk or cycle to school instead of going by car.

Prizes

Photographic or national garden vouchers totalling £1,000 will be awarded to the best pictures submitted from across the UK

For full rules and entry details contact Mr Benfield

Name _____ Tutor Group _____

Caption

Where taken

Closing Date
25 February

For full rules and entry details contact Mr Benfield

Name _____ Tutor Group _____

Caption

Where taken

Closing Date
25 February

For full rules and entry details contact Mr Benfield

Name _____ Tutor Group _____

Caption

Where taken

Closing Date
25 February